You're Getting Divorced

A Checklist

A divorce is a life changing experience. Along with the emotional impact of a divorce, the financial impact can be significant. Some researchers estimate on average that divorcing individuals need more than a 30% increase in income to maintain the same standard of living they had prior to their divorce.1

Below is a checklist of the most common items to review when dealing with a divorce. For more details on these subjects, ask your Financial Consultant for the article: You're Getting Divorced, Now What?
